

Mövenpick Hotels & Resorts fall for frolicking, festivals and flowers this autumn.

With rates from just USD 90, Mövenpick Hotels & Resorts is highlighting the benefits of autumn travel to its hotels in Africa, Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

Zurich (Switzerland), 14 September 2015. Beach breaks, cultural celebrations and nature's seasonal beauty are just some of the good reasons travellers have to discover a new destination this October and November. With Mövenpick Hotels & Resorts' Autumn Campaign, guests at over 80 hotels can benefit from discounts of up to 30% for bookings made by 31 October.

Lots of sunshine, warm Red Sea temperatures and room rates from only USD 90 including breakfast, make Mövenpick Resort Soma Bay in Egypt an easy choice for an autumn beach break. Northern Africa also offers some cultural opportunities this season, with Morocco celebrating its Independence Day on 18 November. Both Casablanca and Tangier are good places to join the revelling.

The brand new Mövenpick Hotel Sukhumvit 15 Bangkok is a superb reason to discover Thailand's capital and 'City of Angels' this autumn. Room rates with breakfast begin at USD 104 and there's always something happening in this vibrant metropolis, like the Loy Krathong festival in November.

Flower lovers can check in at Mövenpick Hotel Hanoi from USD 110 and take a stroll along the city's streets to see and smell the fragrant milk flowers in full bloom, a symbol of the city in autumn. India, including its third largest city Bangalore will light up in mid-November, when the ancient Hindu festival of Diwali (Festival of Lights) is celebrated.

Autumn rates in Europe can be booked from just USD 103 in Germany, when staying at either Mövenpick Hotel Essen or Mövenpick Hotel Frankfurt Oberursel. Bavaria's fall colours, which can be seen during a pleasant daytrip from Munich, are bound to impress. The Amsterdam Dance Event in October, as well as Museum Night and the Light Festival in November are good reasons to head to Amsterdam in the Netherlands.

October and November are great months to travel to the Middle East. In Dubai, where Mövenpick Hotel Apartments The Square Dubai offers nightly rates from USD 109, Global Village opens on 3 November. This seasonal open-air event offers entertainment, fun rides, shopping pavilions, festivities and food from around the world. Autumn is also a great time to take advantage of Jordan's temperate climate to explore Petra, Aqaba and the Dead Sea, with starting rates for each destination between USD 155 and USD 185.

The Autumn Campaign offers up to 30% discount on best available flexible rates for stays from 5 October to 30 November 2015, if booked between 15 September and 31 October. Additionally, Mövenpick Hotels & Resorts' online booking promotion can be combined with this offer, giving guests a USD 20 restaurant voucher when booking on the company's website. Rates for all participating hotels can be found at www.movenpick.com/autumn.
